He told police between 12.15am and 12.30am on Friday, May 26, a man of similar age approached him, grabbed him and threatened him.

The attacker – described as black, around 5ft 8ins tall, of medium, muscular build, with a silver stud in his eyebrow, and wearing dark clothing – then let him go.

Nothing was stolen and the victim was not injured.

CRIME

Call to tighten up on child internet safety

TARGETED: The NSPCC is calling for more security to prevent cyber-related sex crimes against children

THE number of cyber-related sex crimes fell dramatically in Suffolk from 37 to nine last year, according to the latest figures from the NSPCC.

The figures for 2016/17 compared to 2015/16 also show a slight fall in the number of cases in Cambridgeshire from 66 to 53.

But the report reveals the pivotal role the internet plays in child sex offences.

The youngest victim recorded by Cambridgeshire police was just five years old.

Across England and Wales more than 5,600 child sex crimes that had a cyber element were committed against children.

This number has risen by more than a third (44 per cent) from 2015/16 when 39 forces across England and Wales, who responded to the same Freedom of Information request by the NSPCC, recorded 3,903 cyber-related sexual offences.

This is the second year police have been required to record - 'cyber flag' - any crime that involved the internet.

RACHAEL
McMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

The latest figures show police are recording an average of 15 internet-related sex crimes against children a day, highlighting a worrying trend in how predators are using the internet to target children.

Across England and Wales, for offences where age was recorded, 13 was the most common age of the victim (257) but there were nearly 100 offences committed against children aged 10 and under, with the youngest victim aged just 3 years old.

The NSPCC is calling on the next government to make child online safety a top priority.

Peter Wanless, CEO of the NSPCC said: "These figures confirm our fears that offenders are exploiting the internet to target children for their own dark deeds.

"Children also tell our Childline service they are being targeted online by adults who pose as children and try to meet them, or persuade them to perform sexual acts on webcams, before blackmailing them. This terrifies them and can leave some feeling worthless, depressed and suicidal.

"We cannot idly sit by knowing that more and more innocent young people are being harmed online. Today's worrying data leaves the next government with no choice but to urgently address this issue. We are calling on them to force internet companies and social media sites to adhere to rules that keep their young users safe."

The NSPCC is demanding changes including: an independent regulator to hold social media companies to account and fine them where they fail to protect children; government regulated minimum standards which internet companies must meet to safeguard children; and children to be automatically offered safer social media accounts, with default privacy settings, to protect them from harmful content and offenders who seek to prey on them.

We cannot idly sit by knowing that more and more innocent young people are being harmed online

WORK OF ART: Scarecrows take on many guises at Kedington but this Lego astronaut was declared the winner

More pictures online at cambridge-news.co.uk

Scarecrows turn heads in village

AN alien invasion took place in Kedington this week with all sorts of weird and wonderful creatures descending on the village.

There was no need to worry though, this wasn't some sort of Doomsday, War of the Worlds situation.

The invasion was merely for the scarecrow competition run as part of the Meadowlark festival which this year had the theme space: fact or fiction?

Liz Garwood and husband Matt set up the scarecrow competition three years ago to coincide with the village's festival.

Liz said: "I keep saying to

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

people it's really easy to look at the negatives that are happening but things like this put a smile on people's faces.

"Lots of families have taken part and built a scarecrow and some of the village clubs.

"This year's winner – it's a blue Lego astronaut man called 'everything is straw-some'.

"It was a tough competition, the standard was incredible this year."

Other entries included ET and Elliot, Doctor Who and the Tardis, the Clangers and Darthvader.

In the end there was just one point between the winner and second place. Judges scored out of 40 for originality, use of materials, theme and overall impression.

Liz said: "It was really close, there was only one point between first and second. Actually there weren't many points between all of them."

CRIME

Theft victim's film revealing flawed lock is online hit

A VAN driver has revealed a two-second trick being used by thieves to break into Ford Transits.

Alan Hills, a 26-year-old self-employed driver, produced a video that has been watched more than two million times.

He recorded himself forcing the main lock after having £650 worth of power tools stolen from his work van.

Haverhill and the surrounding area has seen a spate of tool thefts from the backs of vans, including Transits, in recent month, leading police to issue advice on theft prevention.

Alan, from St Neots, is one of the latest to fall victim to the simple technique to break into a van and has since heard of hundreds of other drivers who have been targeted in the same way.

He has criticised Ford's vehicle security and hopes he can encourage the company to improve the locks being fitted on new models.

Alan, who took delivery of his van only five weeks ago, said: "All you need is a set of pliers and you can get into any brand new Ford van."

"When you pay £30,000 for a new vehicle, you expect it to be safe and secure, so I want to get the message out there."

"I'm not trying to tell people who don't know about it how to break into a van."

"I'm trying to encourage drivers to get better locks fitted to stop it happening."

Alan, who is contracted to work for double glazing firm SafeStyle UK, left his home on Tuesday morning, May 23, to find his 17-plate Transit van unlocked.

He soon realised the main driver's door lock had been broken and hundreds of pounds worth of tools had been taken from the back.

CIARAN GOLD

Alan reported the theft to police and claims the 101 operator told him that they receive a huge number of calls reporting van theft every morning.

But later that day, a colleague informed him of the easy way thieves are breaking into the new Ford Transits – after finding a flaw in the security system.

By manually opening the only key-entry lock, the alarm is deactivated, making it even easier for thieves to go unnoticed.

His recording has now been seen more than two million times in the past week and shared by more than 21,000 people.

During the video, Alan says: "All it takes is two twists of the mull grips. My van is then unlocked at the front and it then gives you full access to the back and side doors."

"So if anyone's got a Ford Transit Custom, Connect or any other new-shape Transit, be aware to put deadlocks on and get it safe and secure. If not it takes two seconds, no noise."

In a response sent back to Alan, a spokesman for the motoring company said: "Alongside the police, we make every effort to ensure our customers understand the potential threats to the security of their vehicles from criminal gangs, and endeavour to develop preventative measures, wherever possible."

VICTIM: After having power tools stolen from his van, Alan Hills has produced a video of how thieves are breaking into vehicles by popping the black key casing off

SCHOOL: Pupils in the school's wildlife garden

Eco efforts earn award for school

KEDINGTON Primary Academy has once again been named a Green Flag Eco school after a recent assessment saw it pass with flying colours.

The school's Eco Council of two members from each age group from Year 1 to Year 6, ensures the grounds are free from litter and carries out regular environmental reviews.

Pupils also take an active part in world awareness days and work closely with the team of junior road safety officers at the school.

Headteacher Karen Sheargold said: "I feel it is very important that children have a strong voice and that they care passionately about their environment."

Assessors were also impressed with the school's commitment to food waste and recycling and the school's wildlife garden.

Youth project sees 37 per cent fall in anti-social behaviour

A PROJECT that runs alternative sports projects for youngsters to prevent them getting involved in crime and anti-social behaviour is proving a great success.

Catch 22 Suffolk Positive Futures currently runs projects in nine towns across Suffolk – including Haverhill and Newmarket – and across all there has been a 37 per cent fall in the recorded number of anti-social behaviour incidents since 2014.

The project aims to transform young people's lives and make a significant impact on reducing crime and youth violence in deprived communities, while tackling feelings of hopelessness.

Paul Knight, Suffolk Positive Futures project manager, said: "Obviously we can't take all the credit for the reduction in the recorded number of anti-social behaviour incidents, however, our free weekly sessions of football, boxing, street dance and multi sports continue to attract large numbers of young people in these deprived areas, and we definitely offer a positive alternative to poor behavioural choices."

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

Most of the volunteers at Suffolk Positive Futures are young people who have come through the service and gone from being a participant to wanting to give something back.

In the last five years the project has worked with 5,000 young people between the ages of 10 and 19 and has had more than 50,000 people attend sports sessions.

Tim Passmore, Suffolk's Police and Crime Commissioner, said: "I have seen first-hand the positive impact that Suffolk Positive Futures can have on young people and I'd like to think the reduction in anti-social behaviour can be linked in some way to the various programmes funded through my crime and disorder reduction grants."

He added: "All too often young people make a wrong choice as teenagers and this limits their choices in the future."

"By showing our young people how to make positive life choices they become good citizens and giving them positive role models will help them to become more confident and principled adults."

He said: "Whilst I know it's not all about sport and dance, nevertheless this approach helps our youngsters know what's right or wrong and to have a purpose in life."

"I am a huge supporter of Suffolk Positive Futures and will continue to help them whenever I can – more power to their elbow."

Sessions are run every Friday night 7pm-9pm at Haverhill Sports Centre and in Newmarket two sessions are run, a girls' football session on a Monday evening at 5.30pm and the other sports session on Friday nights between 8pm and 10pm.

Medical records project rolled out

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

A PILOT project to make medical treatment for patients faster is being rolled out across West Suffolk.

The project, called Health Information Exchange (HIE), gives GPs and hospital staff a secure way to access patients' medical records and make treatment times faster.

Patients need to give consent for their data to be shared but, according to NHS Suffolk, the new scheme will reduce the time GPs and hospital staff waste chasing up each other's medical notes.

The pilot scheme launched last year initially involved volunteers from Hardwicke House, which has practices in Sudbury, Great Conrod, Bures and Clare.

Phil Worsley, secretary of the Patient Participation Group at Hardwicke House, said: "My fellow PPG members and I think that the principle of sharing medical records between GPs and hospitals is an excellent initiative."

"Some people get uptight about the thought of their personal data being shared, but our members were happy to give consent for their medical records to be accessed."

"Many people have experienced cancelled or wasted appointments due to their GP or hospital staff not being able to access each other's records."

"Only recently, a patient who had been discharged from West Suffolk Hospital told me their GP was able to access all their records from the ward and consultant the following day."

Eventually it's hoped this project in West Suffolk will help with the NHS plan to be completely paperless by 2020.

Mr Worsley said: "If we want a sustainable local hospital we have to move processes into the 21st Century and use technology to help us to help patients."

Dr Dermot O'Riordan, chief clinical information officer for the West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust, said the HIE scheme would benefit patients hugely.

"It's really exciting because it breaks down the barriers between different clinical IT systems regarding the information being held on patients," he said.

"The scheme enables GPs and hospital clinicians to access the most up-to-date data held on an individual. This information is only used for direct patient care."

"If a confused patient is admitted to hospital overnight we can access their GP records to see what medication they're on and what allergies they might have. We can also check if they have underlying chronic health problems."

"We've already had examples of cancer treatment being sped up because fellow clinicians have been able to see the results of tests patients had already undergone."

The pilot scheme is currently being rolled out to the Market Cross, Botesdale, Woolpit, Brandon, Victoria Street, Angel Hill, Long Melford, Wickhambrook, Stanton and Clare Guildhall practices. It is hoped to extend the scheme to the remaining 13 practices in West Suffolk - all of which use a different IT system - by the end of summer.

Struggling GP surgery opens its doors for public consultation

RACHAEL
@rach_mc94CN

A STRUGGLING Haverhill GP surgery which is being overhauled due to staff shortages has opened its doors to patients to talk through the imminent changes.

Christmas Maltings and Clements GP practice on Greenfields Way is being taken over by the Suffolk GP Federation this month.

The practice has failed to attract new doctors and nurses resulting in above average waiting times for patients.

Dr Fiona Andrews, senior partner at Christmas Maltings and Clements Practice, said: "We can assure everybody that the practice will continue to operate with our patients' best interests in mind. However, the way we do certain things will have to change.

"The first come, first served appointment system that we currently operate will be replaced. Instead, patients will have to phone the practice in advance and they will be allocated an appropriate appointment either on the same day or later in the week – depending on why they are calling.

"In addition, we will also be taking a stronger stance against unacceptable patient behaviour. We expect all our patients to treat staff with respect. Anyone deemed to be acting inappropriately will be dealt with according to our governing policies and procedures. This could either take the form of a written warning or – if the incident is particularly serious – immediate removal from the patient list."

Patients were invited to the surgery on Tuesday to hear more about the changes and ask questions about the effect they may have.

As part of the changes a Christmas Maltings and Clements Practice board will be set up that will be responsible for the future development of the surgery and include both staff and patient representatives.

It is the first time an employee and patient board will be responsible for managing a GP practice in Suffolk.

Dr Paul Driscoll, medical director and chairman of Suffolk GP Federation, said: "The focus is very much on ensuring that Christmas Maltings and Clements remains a sustainable, local practice for the people of Haverhill and surrounding areas including the sister practice in Kedington.

"The patient information evening provided an opportunity for patients to learn more about the changes that are taking place. We understand that people may have a lot of questions and we are keen for them to provide feedback and share their views. We will also be launching a Christmas Maltings and Clements Facebook page where we will keep everybody updated."

Suffolk GP Federation is a not-for-profit organisation of 59 independent GP practices covering 580,000 patients throughout Suffolk.

CRIME

Jewellery thefts from homes may be linked

JEWELLERY and cash were among items stolen in burglaries in the villages of Little Thurlow and Barnardiston.

Both break-ins happened on Tuesday, May 23, during a 12-hour window between 8am and 8pm.

Thieves forced their way into a home in The Green, Little Thurlow.

Jewellery, a laptop and silverware were among the items taken.

Suffolk Police are considering whether another break-in at Grey's Lane in Barnardiston could be linked.

In Barnardiston the burglars stole jewellery and a desktop computer.

Police are urging residents to keep their homes secure to avoid becoming an easy target for thieves.

Doors and windows should be shut during the warmer weather.

Members of the public are also reminded to activate tracker apps on their computers and mobile phones, and to take photographs of jewellery, to assist in the recovery of stolen goods.

Anyone who has information about either of the break-ins is asked to contact CID West at Suffolk Police on 101.

Quote the reference 36992/17 for the Little Thurlow break-in and the reference 36991/17 for the Barnardiston burglary.

COMMUNITY

Judges to choose magazines worthy of winning awards

ENTRIES are now open for the annual Community Magazine Awards, which celebrate the publications that serve the region's small communities.

The awards were launched 18 years ago by the Cambridge Building Society, backed by our sister paper, the Cambridge News, with the aim of recognising the hard work done by groups, charities and colleges to provide news and information.

A building society spokeswoman said: "The judges will consider magazines published in a 30-mile radius of Cambridge throughout 2016 and will look at editorial quality, community content and overall presentation. They will also be assessing the publication's usefulness to those it serves."

The Cambridge's chief operating officer Andy Lucas, said: "We may live in a digital age but the number of entries we receive each year proves that there is still a demand for community-focused printed news."

The awards ceremony will take place in mid-July with key speakers and a Q&A session planned so that entrants have a chance to ask anything about the judging process or advice for the future.

Entry forms can be collected from The Cambridge's branches, downloaded from the website at www.cambridgebs.co.uk/CMA or requested by emailing marketing@cambridgebs.co.uk.

The closing date for entries is Friday, June 23.

ALEX HIBBERT

samples Hong Kong's glorious assault on the senses and enjoys the life of luxury at the opulent Kerry Hotel

PHILOSOPHER Aristotle said 'adventure is worthwhile', and it's a sentiment which always struck a chord with me. Though I never fulfilled my childhood dream to become Indiana Jones, I've tried to travel and immerse myself in new cultures.

Of course being an explorer isn't easy these days, but Cathay Pacific's five-times-weekly direct flights from Manchester to Hong Kong on their new A350 aircraft make discovering new worlds all too tempting.

A mesmerising city, Hong Kong teems with life, nothing ever really closes and there's always something to do. And it's the perfect place to connect West to East – mixing Oriental and European sensibilities, culture, food and lifestyle. Like all the best places, it feels alien from the moment you arrive – as you take in the skyline, the neon and the smells on the trip from the airport to wherever you're calling home for the duration of your stay.

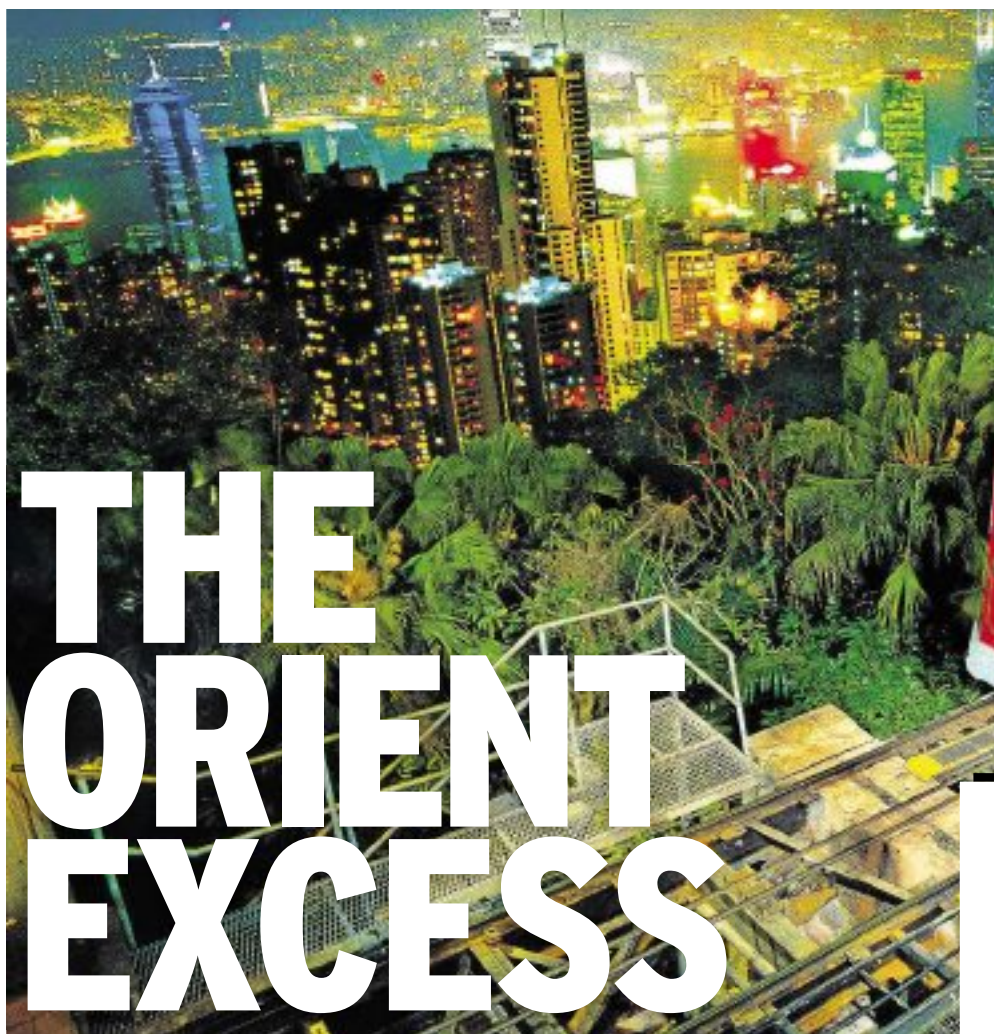

From one moment to the next you could find yourself flying up and down its steep streets on a historic double-decker tram, sailing aboard a junk ship enjoying the spectacular harbour views, or trekking across sprawling country parks. Aromas dance through the air from unknown places, people never seem to stop moving. And despite being home to more than seven million people, Hong Kong isn't so huge it feels overbearing.

Normally the hotel could be incidental to a trip discovering a truly unique place like this, but Shangri-La's new Kerry Hotel is no ordinary hotel. Set on Kowloon's vibrant waterfront at the heart of Hung Hom Bay, it delivers my first moment of pure wonder – when I walk into my room and see the breathtaking views of Hong Kong Island's skyline.

The hotel is opulence defined. Rooms are grand but modern, offering all the amenities you could care for on a city-break, while its lounge 'The Club' offers guests a luxury breakfast spread to stock up for a busy day, or a place to unwind after a long day with a cocktail and some snacks. And it's possibly the only hotel I've ever stayed which has a gym so luxurious it actually made me want to work out.

If you can tear yourself away from the hotel, a good place to start exploring Hong Kong is up at Victoria Peak, the highest point on Hong Kong Island – it offers 360-degree views of the island and views of the harbour vista as you look down and across to Kowloon.

It's fun to simply pick a spot and start wandering – and there's nowhere better to get lost than in Hong Kong's Old Town, one of the oldest yet trendiest districts in the city. Here hipster joints merge with historic streets and sights, residents hang washing out on balconies perched just above artisan coffee joints. Take an organised tour by Walk in Hong Kong (walkin.hk) –

NEED TO KNOW

■ Featuring the state-of-the-art A350-900, Cathay Pacific's flights to Hong Kong will move to a daily service from December 2017. From Hong Kong, Cathay Pacific serves over 190 destinations, including 22 destinations within mainland China.

■ The airline offers the fastest flight between Manchester and the key Australian destination of Sydney, taking just over 22 hours. Return fares to Hong Kong from Manchester start at £480 in Economy, £1,397 in Premium Economy and £3,303 in Business Class. The airline also flies from Heathrow. To book, visit cathaypacific.co.uk.

the company's knowledgeable guides offer a fascinating insight into the city's history and its people. While exploring the Old Town, be sure to pop into Po's Atelier, an uber-chic bakery which mixes traditional techniques and modern décor, and its Cafe Deadend eatery just behind for a steaming hot chocolate.

Funky neighbourhood Poho – which you'll know from the mass of streets and buildings with names starting with 'Po' – is a cluster of cafes, boutiques and galleries that act as a hotspot for Hong Kong's hipsters. There are plenty of places to sample the city's world-leading cuisine and cocktails here.

One standout is the otherworldly Iron Fairies (facebook.com/TheIronFairiesHongKong), where thousands of petrified butterflies line the ceiling and revellers are treated to a live jazz and blues, fantastical cocktails and hearty food.

Hong Kong Island is the city's commercial centre, where skyscrapers crowd over you and stretch as far as the eye can see, futuristic walkways perched above highways give way to green spaces and escalators deposit people onto rooftop bars and shopping malls brimming with luxury brands.

But for an insight into what life is like for the masses in Hong Kong, Kowloon's heartland of Yau Ma Tei and Jordan offer a grittier, more 'real' experience of the city. Here flats pile up on top of each other and food markets fill to the brim with workers during the early afternoon. Pop into to a Cha chaan teng – or tea restaurant – for some Hong Kong cuisine, including pineapple buns and the ever popular milk tea. We were shown around by Ho Ho Go (hohogo.com.hk/en/hohogo) – who offer tourists cultural walks, workshops and excursions. And after a busy day discovering the city, being able to return to the refuge of The Kerry Hotel is the perfect way to relax. You can easily lose a few hours sipping cocktails on the Red Sugar bar's veranda, or dining at its restaurant Hung Tong – where executive chef Matthew Bennink's menu fuses traditional Cantonese recipes with a forward thinking approach to food.

And as Hong Kong is Cathay Pacific's Asian hub, it's possible to fly on almost anywhere in Asia, Australia and New Zealand if you want to continue exploring.

Eventually the time will come when you have to tear yourself away and return home. But the disappointment of a journey's end is made all the more bearable when you're on-board Cathay Pacific's A350. The airline's staff make sure you never want for anything, while business class passengers get to relax in seats designed by Porsche, and even economy seats offer a level of luxury well above the competition.

As I relax on my return flight, reclined and relaxed with a cocktail in hand and my high-definition screen playing the latest films, I think sometimes it's a good thing if dreams don't come true.

After all, Indiana Jones never had it this good.

CRIME WRITER DIANE JANES ON HER DETERMINATION TO FIND A KILLERJustice at last for victim of 1930s murder?

THE case of Evelyn Foster's murder was fascinating to me. Found 70 feet away from the road crawling out of her flame-engulfed car, she'd used her dying breaths to explain what had happened to her.

But the case had never been solved. So, 86 years on, I set out to sdo just that.

Being a crime writer, I'm always after something new to sink my teeth into. When anyone dies, there's a coroner's inquest that gets filed away for 75 years. After that, they're open to the public. In the case of Evelyn Foster, I was met with crates and crates of paper.

But it was obvious the records had been shoved in, all scrunched up and chaotic. Why had they been so desperate to close the case?

In 1931, the Chief Constable of Northumberland was in charge of the Evelyn's case. His views were Victorian and outdated. He was set to retire in little over a year, and it was fair to say that during his time on the investigation he was winding down. Many even reported he was incompetent.

And, for reasons that became clear as I investigated, he didn't like Evelyn at all. But the more I read about her, the more I liked her.

KNOWING EVELYN

SHE was 28 and drove a taxi for her father's business. She did a regular taxi run on market days, picking up passengers from where the bus stopped and taking them the remainder of their journey.

On 5 January 1931, she'd finished her shift, but was stopped by a man waiting at a road junction on her way home. He'd been dropped off by another car and was looking to continue to Newcastle on the bus.

In the freezing cold and dark, Evelyn explained he'd missed the bus by 20 minutes, but, as she was heading in that direction, she'd do the journey.

It was a high-fare job and Evelyn dropped him off at a pub, suggesting he ask any of the punters if they were heading that way as it would save him the fare. While he asked, she went to get extra petrol. No one was heading to Newcastle, but at least she'd tried to help him out.

It would be the last job she ever took. Hours later, her frantic parents, who were looking for her, were met by a scene of carnage.

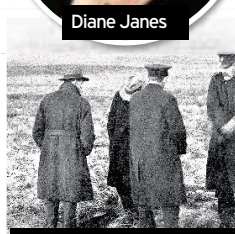

Her car, destroyed by fire, was found off-road on a sharp bend

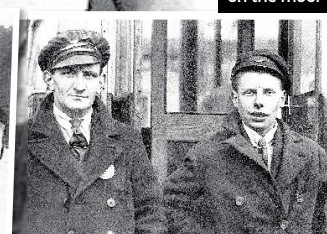

Diane Janes

Diane's book Death at Wolf's Nick is out now

Left, Evelyn Foster and, below, Cecil Johnstone and Tom Rutherford, the bus driver and conductor who found her on the moor

Police search the area where Evelyn's burned-out taxi was found called 'Wolf's Nick' Evelyn, who had crawled from the car and rolled to put out the flames on her body, was scooped up by her dad and rushed home to see a doctor.

Taking one look at her, the doctor knew she wouldn't make it. As the police turned up to interview her, she used her last moments to describe the person who had done this to her. He was 5ft 8in, dressed in an overcoat and a bowler hat. She explained he'd hit her, taken control of the car, thrown her in the back, and 'interfered' with her.

It was impossible to determine what she meant by 'interfered'.

Her mother was convinced Evelyn had been raped, but later inspection found no evidence.

From that moment, the Chief Constable became convinced Evelyn had lied. In those days, if women got to an age like 28 without marrying, they were often deemed hysterical. He portrayed her as a dirty-minded spinster who cried wolf and even suggested the whole thing was an accident - with insurance due on her car, he said it was a cash scam gone wrong.

But it wasn't a view shared by everyone. Evelyn said she crawled out of the back of the car. But the driver's door was wide open - someone else had been driving.

Officers worked 14-hour days collecting more than 100 statements, but not one person saw the accused man. He never went inside the pub, and when the police asked for the man who had dropped him off to come forward, nobody did. To the Chief Constable, this all meant it hadn't happened. Case closed.

As I started going through the statements, it became clear some of the timings in the case didn't add up. I tried every single eventuality and found there was a window of time when there was nobody on the village street - the exact time the accused would have got out and waited for Evelyn. No one saw him because no one was there. At that moment, I had no doubt, Evelyn had been telling the truth.

CRUCIAL EVIDENCE

WHEN I realised that, I started to feel so angry with the Constable. He hadn't listened to anyone's opinion and had developed an irrational loathing of the victim.

This poor woman had been accused of such vile things when she had been the victim. And, when I stumbled across a crucial piece of evidence that was ignored, I felt the case was unforgivable.

Someone had in fact reported meeting a gentleman fitting Evelyn's description. He'd seen this man's face on the front of a newspaper after he'd been charged and imprisoned for four years for a previous sexual assault and it triggered a memory.

He said when he'd met this man the case had come up in conversation and he had said, 'She got what she deserved.'

An odd thing to say to a stranger.

The man was also wearing an overcoat, a bowler hat, and spoke about how he regularly stopped people for lifts. However, the chief constable had no interest in interviewing this man. It's thought he said to his staff, 'the chap concerned is a soldier, so go and ask his colleagues what they think if you like.' Sure enough, it turned out he was on leave from the army at the time of the murder.

There are no fingerprints, no DNA, but I'm convinced he did it. Evelyn's family was never made aware of this lead. Her death utterly destroyed the Fosters.

One of the statements from a policeman read, 'We haven't found a single thing to prove what she said, but we also haven't found a single thing to disprove it.' It was clear they wanted to help.

I believe the Chief Constable became angry that they carried on looking into it and that's why the files were shoved away.

I hope Evelyn knows nobody has forgotten her, and, that by trying to prove the truth, I can finally get justice for her.

TITLES

THE END WE START FROM by Megan Hunter, Picador, £9.99 (ebook £6.64)

HUNTER'S debut novel makes an explosive start by the woman narrator giving birth to her first child, Z while an enormous flood wipes out London, forcing the family to flee in search of safety.

This is a story of sheer catastrophe, peppered with endearing experiences and milestones of new motherhood. The element which defines this short piece of dystopian fiction is the unique, elegant writing style. A poet, Hunter 'tells' the story in sparse prose, which can be difficult to get on board with.

However, the End We Start From is beautiful, thought-provoking and most of all, hauntingly believable. It is a tale of hope at a time when the country truly needs it. A stunning debut.

THE HOPKINS CONUNDRUM by Simon Edge, Lightning Books, £8.99 (ebook £4.07)

TIM CLEVERLEY has inherited a struggling pub in North Wales, near the Jesuit seminary where Victorian poet Gerard Manley Hopkins wrote the poem The Wreck of the Deutschland.

Inspired by a terrible holiday with his ex on the trail of blockbuster Holy Grail novel The Poussin Conundrum, Tim hits on a plan to drum up more trade. He invents a mystery around Hopkins' obscure religious poem and the local area, and entices the Conundrum's author to come and write about it.

What follows is a witty satire in which Edge cleverly weaves together Hopkins' struggles as he writes the poem, those of a group of nuns on the doomed Deutschland and Tim's bid to turn his corner of the world into the next Grail hunting hotspot.

By turns gripping and laugh-out-loud funny, this is a great read for anyone who has ever reached the end of a Vatican thriller with an eyebrow raised.

Latest news and events from

TO kick off this year's Haverhill Festival the arts centre welcomes back comedian and professional mischief maker Mark Thomas tonight.

In Mark's latest show, which is a work in progress, he sets out to discover what the future has in store and asks the audience for their predictions.

At the end of the show he will place a bet and might even make a few quid.

■ Psychic and medium Marcus Day takes to the arts centre stage tomorrow.

He said: "There's nothing spooky, weird or supernatural about a medium's work. It's simply natural law and part of our potential and experience on our amazing human journey." Marcus also says that "working as a medium helping those who have taken the journey we call death to pass on their messages to their loved ones here is one of my greatest joys".

■ There are two imaginative interpretations of old children's classics which are suitable for all the family this week; Peter Pan a National Theatre recorded broadcast that has been described as "spellbinding" and "imaginative" on Saturday and Spinning Wheel Theatre's version of The Secret Garden on Sunday. The story of Mary, Colin and Dickon will be enchanting audiences at East Town Park, so take a blanket and a bottle of lemonade. The weather forecast promises a fine day.

■ Blake, three boys who have undoubtedly made their mothers proud, will be Singing Songs of Stage and Screen on Sunday.

Taking inspiration from such greats as Leonard Cohen, The Beach Boys and Andrew Lloyd Webber amongst many others, this promises to be a memorable evening of entertainment from the BRIT-winning harmony trio.

■ Baroque Theatre presents three fast-paced one act plays with Comedy Triple Bill on Thursday, June 15. Last Tango in Little Grimley sees a local am-dram group attempt to drum up some audiences by putting on a sizzling sex comedy. Hmmm, this may be ill advised. A Jolly Sinister Jape is a Famous Fivey-type adventure in which a group of chums find themselves imprudently trapped in a mysterious house. Last Panto in Little Grimley is a sequel to Last Tango in which the troupe, in yet another injudicious move, decide to put on a Christmas panto. The show promises to be full of jolly japes in the style of the classic British sit-com.

■ Go on a cinematic journey through the chapels of Florence and the great museums and print rooms of Europe to discover more about the Renaissance artist Michaelangelo on Tuesday, June 13. The documentary Michaelangelo, Love and Death explores the works of the great artist but also charts his turbulent life and tempestuous character.

■ For a little light relief this week the arts centre turns to Bill Nighy and Gemma Atterton in the romantic comedy drama Their Finest (12A). Catrin, is hired by the British Ministry of Information to bring a female perspective to wartime propaganda films. She has problems aplenty, the main ones being a lame duck story and constant demands for rewrites and if that wasn't enough, she also has to cope with the antics of a self-obsessed thespian.

■ Coming soon the arts centre has Africa Entsha – a capella singing South African style (Friday, June 16), The ELO Encounter (Saturday, June 17), and Snake Davis and his Band with Classic Sax Solos (Sunday, June 25).

Your Guide to Moving Home

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital.

The team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls.

We suggest you tick them off as you go....

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ☐ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ☐ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ☐ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

Change of address – tell companies and organisations that you are moving!

Notify:

- ☐ Employer
- ☐ Inland revenue
- ☐ Local council
- ☐ Banks or Building Societies
- ☐ Credit companies, store cards & other accounts
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and water boards
- ☐ Insurance companies
- ☐ Land / mobile phones
- ☐ Internet and cable / satellite TV providers
- ☐ Doctor, Dentist and Opticians
- ☐ DVLA
- ☐ Veterinary surgery
- ☐ TV Licensing

1 WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Delivery address – change delivery address of your Cambridge News, milk, groceries and fuel to your new address as appropriate.
- ☐ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?

- ☐ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.

- ☐ Fridges / Freezers – empty and clean out in preparation for moving. If you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

- ☐ Valuables / documents – put these in safe place for moving day

4 2-1 DAYS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – pack a bag for overnight essentials and toiletries and finish all remaining packing into boxes. Remember to label which room each box is destined for.

- ☐ Snack box – pack a box for the kitchen to include essentials like tea, coffee and sugar, as well as the kettle and mugs! Also include other snacks as necessary.

- ☐ Dismantle and disconnect – take down curtains, fixtures and fittings and disconnect white goods ready for transport.

- ☐ Outdoor items – make sure that these are stacked together and ready to be moved.

- ☐ Mobile – place your mobile on charge the night before moving and ensure that all relevant people have your number.

5 ON MOVING DAY:

AT YOUR OLD ADDRESS:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Finish packing toiletries box.
- ☐ Direct removal firm personnel or friends helping you move as to what needs to be done.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler / central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Make final checks and leave key as arranged with new owners.

AT YOUR NEW HOME:

- ☐ Open up & have a look around the new house.
- ☐ Locate fuse box, gas and electric meter and stop cock for reference.
- ☐ Take readings on gas, electric and water meters as appropriate.
- ☐ Organise the direction of boxes to appropriate rooms.
- ☐ Check the van after all is unloaded.
- ☐ Make the beds up for the evening.
- ☐ Sit down and relax – unpack the other boxes the next day.

BRITISH PROPERTY AWARDS 2017

GOLD WINNER ESTATE AGENT

The British Property Awards Winner

Bourne Estates have just won The British Property Awards for Saffron.

Their team performed outstandingly throughout the extensive judging period, which focused on customer service levels. Bourne Estates have now been shortlisted for a number of national awards which will be announced later in the year at our lavish ceremony in central London.

The British Property Awards provide agents throughout the UK with an invaluable opportunity to compare the service that they provide against the service provided by their local, regional and national competitors. Agents who go that extra mile and provide outstanding levels of customer service are rewarded with our accolade, which acts as a beacon to highlight these attributes to their local marketplace.

Bourne Estates

www.bourneestates.co.uk

THE BRITISH PROPERTY AWARDS are one of the most exclusive estate agency awards provided across Great Britain. This has enabled our award to be structured in a manner that ensures maximum participation, an award judging new 10% of agents that meet our minimum criteria on a local level.

Our team personally judges every estate agent against a set of 25 criteria to obtain a balanced overview of their customer service levels. The judging criteria is both comprehensive and detailed requiring different methods, scenarios and time periods to ensure that agents have been rigorously and fairly judged.

Robert McLean from The British Property Awards said: "Our awards have been specifically designed to be accessible to all agents, ensuring customer fairness to every agent in mind, to ensure that we have the most realistic awards. Our award has also been designed to reward any opportunity for best of management. If an agent has been attributed with one of our awards, it is simply down to the fantastic customer service levels that they have demonstrated across a prolonged period of time. Winning agents should be proud that their customer service levels provide a benchmark for their local, regional and national competitors."

Size matters for big bruiser Maserati SUV

If you've got it, flaunt it. Or, as Maserati does with its first SUV, make it big and bold.

A pencil's width longer than a Range Rover and easily as in-yer-face as the biggest-grilled Audis, the new Levante is not a car to be easily ignored.

Named after a warm Mediterranean wind, the Levante is put together in a famous old former Fiat factory in Turin and is 100 per cent Italian, from looks and engine to the way you'll react on opening a door for the first time.

Especially if your Levante comes with the £5,950 luxury pack option and is finished in soft brown leather that makes it more contemporary luxury hotel lobby than a mere means of transport.

That not insignificant sum comes on top of the car's £54,355 list price and indicates that Maserati wants its Levante to be considered alongside all the other SUVs emerging from car makers who up to now saw no case for big, high riding cars that could tackle muddy tracks as confidently as take you into town.

The cost of entry buys you a car whose beefy 271 bhp 3.0 litre V6 diesel engine helps produce impressive performance figures; a top speed of 143mph and zero to 62mph in 6.9 seconds.

That would be good going in a more modestly sized saloon, let alone a bruiser of an SUV that tips the scales (empty) at more than 2.2 tonnes.

Just announced – if you need still more performance from your Levante and have deeper pockets – is the 424bhp petrol version at £70,755.

Its V6 engine is designed and built by Ferrari and takes the Levante S to 164mph and reaches 62mph in 5.2 seconds.

Most people will find the diesel perky enough. A bit lethargic from slow speeds, it needs its eight-speed automatic gearbox prodded into action, when this big car fairly bolts forward and makes enough proper "fast Italian car" noise to enjoy the feeling.

Not that many owners will want to threaten their car's paintwork with stiff off-roading, but the car will go places you'd not expect something with a Maserati badge to venture.

It may be a big car but there is no more than enough space for rear seat passengers and the boot is short of huge too.

WIND: The Maserati Levante will go where others fear to tread

MAXIMUM: Nissan Micra

Top safety marks for new Nissan Micra

NISSAN'S new Micra has been awarded a five-star safety rating in the UK from Euro NCAP.

The top score safety standard for the new supermini is mainly because of its so-called intelligent driving technologies in the safety assist category of testing.

The new Micra, which is priced from £11,995, is fitted with automatic emergency braking and systems which can detect a slowing or stopping vehicle ahead and automatically apply the brakes.

Depending on the relative speeds, this can avoid an impact or reduce the severity.

The Micra was tested under Euro NCAP's newest protocols and achieved the maximum possible five star score.

Every new Micra comes with six airbags as standard.

SNAPPED UP: Ford Mustang

Mustang top selling sports car – Ford

SINCE its launch in late 2015 the new Ford Mustang has been snapped up by more than 4,500 fans in the UK and Ford says it is now the most popular sports car in the world.

According to Ford analysis the Mustang increased its sales lead in 2016 as the world's best-selling sports car, with more than 150,000 sold.

Overall global sales increased six per cent over 2015, fuelled by non-US market growth up 101 per cent, with almost 45,000 Mustangs sold outside its American homeland.

In the UK, with 3,250 sales in 2016, the Mustang comfortably led the sales tables for sports cars over 250bhp.

In the first full year of sales in Europe customers ordered 15,335 Mustangs and it was the best-selling sports car in several markets.

Ford recently introduced a new limited run edition Mustang with special styling and premium specifications for the UK market priced from £39,895.

At your service for new Crafter owners

VOLKSWAGEN Commercial Vehicles is offering two complimentary services to customers who place orders on a new Crafter before July 2 and register it by September 30, 2017.

The deal is available on all 2017 Crafter models, whether acquired through hire purchase, lease purchase, contract hire or finance lease. The offer has been launched to help customers minimise costly downtime and maximise value.

The scheme includes both an interim and full service and is designed to not only free the new owner from routine servicing bills for the first part of the vehicle's life, but also guarantees all work is carried out by a qualified Volkswagen Commercial Vehicles technician.

The Crafter was introduced in 2006 and is the largest 3-5 tonne van sold by Volkswagen and production of around 85,000 a year is planned.

Honda has a lot riding on its upgraded Civic BIGGER isn't always better, especially in today's car world where more from less is the modern mantra.

That's why you can now buy a big car with an engine so apparently small and feeble that there's no hint of its size in chrome on the boot lid.

In truth, the clever people buried deep in the car makers' engineering departments have cracked the less-is-more conundrum and given us a new generation of tiny petrol engines that perform like lions.

Most – 70 per cent – of the latest Honda Civic will be sold with an engine that features only three cylinders and displaces a mere one litre.

In compensation, it puts out 127 horsepower and rows the new car along with complete conviction while using, on paper at least, less fuel than either the old 1.4 or 1.8 litre units of the old model.

If you insist on something bigger under the bonnet there's a 1.5 litre petrol engine ready to assist, but it will be a rarer sight on your local dealer's inventory.

Whichever engine you go for – the diesel from the old car arrives later this year – the new Civic is longer by 13cms, wider by 3cms and lower by 2cms than the outgoing model.

That brings a boot as big, at a cavernous 478 litres, as anything in the sector – Focus and Golf are obvious comparisons.

You don't need a tape measure to know the latest Civic is larger than before – with much more aggressive lines and big black, fake, air intakes and outlets front and rear – it looks

LESS IS MORE: The new Honda Civic puts out 127hp from a one litre engine and has a much more conventional dashboard than the older model which it replaces larger from a hundred paces.

Lower, though, in an effort to add a sporty touch and a height reduction that means there is no longer room for the fuel tank beneath the front seats and that means farewell to the clever "magic" rear seat which flipped to let you pack a smallish bicycle behind the driver.

Also lacking from the newcomer is a dashboard that looked more like an arcade game display than a sober information dispenser. The new one is much more conventional.

New Civic prices start at £18,335 for an entry level SE and top out with the £27,295 Prestige with larger 1.5 petrol engine and automatic transmission.

The manual gearbox is smooth and light enough to make a sensible choice for most drivers, but the auto will go down well with owners who spend their lives in town or traffic jams. A significant 40 per cent of Civics are likely to be autos.

The official figures give the 1.0 litre engine a CO2 output from 106g/km and 55.4mpg overall with the 1.5 litre from 133g/km and 46.3mpg average.

New suspension, newly independent at the rear, brings a ride that verges on the soft but the push of a button in some higher grade versions stiffens things up and makes the car feel much more playful on the corners.

The latest Civic represents the largest single model development programme in Honda's history, so there's a lot riding on the success of the bigger, yet smaller new baby.

Extra features are Superb

SKODA has announced upgrades to its flagship Superb and Superb Estate cars which include additional security, comfort features and connectivity.

From June, the Superbs will come with Skoda's Care Connect system offering an automatic emergency call which is activated following an accident if a restraint system has been triggered.

When activated the vehicle establishes a voice and data connection to an emergency call centre and transmits all the necessary data. The emergency call can also be used manually via a button in the roof module.

SAFER: The Skoda Superb

In addition, remote access to the vehicle is now possible via the Skoda Connect App.

The smartphone system can inform the driver, among other things, whether the windows and doors are closed or the lights off.

Vauxhall's family festival

VAUXHALL has announced the return of its unique Family Experience area at this year's Goodwood Festival of Speed from June 29-July 2.

Families looking to take a break from the on-track action have the chance to try their luck against a robot goalkeeper in one of a handful of football challenges.

The more adventurous can try the Vauxhall zip line.

There will also be plenty to do for the younger family members, including a ball pool, crazy golf, face painting, tree climbing, a creche and a selfie booth for capturing a fun memento from the day.

Who murdered Evelyn Foster?

In 1931, off a remote Northumberland road, flames rose up into the night. Beyond anyone's help, Evelyn Foster lay near her burning car – herself engulfed in flames. With her last breath she described her assailant: a mysterious man with a bowler hat.

Nearly 90 years after her murder the case remained unsolved. With unprecedented access to the police files has crime writer, Diane Janes, finally tracked the killer down?

Aspire (CRP) Ltd Non-Executive Director x 2 Salary - £510 per annum to include expenses

Aspire (CRP) Ltd is a wholly owned subsidiary of Uttlesford District Council. On 15 May 2017 Aspire (CRP) Ltd acquired a 50% stake, through a Joint Venture with Aviva Life & Pensions UK Limited, in Chesterford Research Park which is one of the science parks that form a cluster around the south of Cambridge. Uttlesford District Council is seeking to recruit two Non-Executive Directors to sit on the Board of Aspire (CRP) Ltd to support and advise the three Directors. We are looking for people who will add to the strengths of the existing Directors and support the business as it grows in the most exciting period that the Council has seen in a generation.

Experience of this sector is not a requirement but we would expect you to have a business background, probably at board level. It is anticipated that the Board will meet four times per annum; however there may in addition be the need for ad hoc meetings. All meetings will be held in Saffron Walden.

For an informal discussion please contact Adrian Webb, Director of Aspire (CRP) Ltd on 01799 510421.

If you are interested in this post please telephone 01799 510409/424 for an application form. Completed application forms should be returned to Human Resources, Room 14 or emailed to humanresources@uttlesford.gov.uk

Closing date for completed applications is midday on Monday 19 June.

Interviews are intended to be held on 27 June.

CVs will not be accepted.

We positively welcome applicants from all sections of the community.

Tie, tie again in league stalemates

HAVERHILL tied two matches in as many days after dramatic last-over run outs.

The first instance was in Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One, when they hosted Wivenhoe.

Their opponents batted first and put 265 for 5 on the board from their 50 overs having been 165 for 1 at one stage.

Haverhill captain Adam Dellar made a fine 107 in reply, and the final pairing of Ben Wilkins and Harry Harding needed a single off the last over with the scores level.

Unfortunately a run out left them all out on 265 as the contest ended in a tie, with the hosts taking 12 points.

"It was an unbelievable game to play in as it ebbed and flowed throughout," said Dellar.

"I thought we were dead and buried after 25 overs, but we stuck at it and I thought we would have deserved to win."

Incredibly the team followed it up the next day with another tie in the Suffolk T20 after another run out at the death.

Spinner Callum Brunning took 2 for 13 as Woolpit registered 149 for 5, before Dan Pass (39) and Dellar, who had to retire on 51, gave Haverhill a good platform in reply.

It all went down to the final ball with the visitors needing one run to win, but a run out left the teams level and sharing the spoils in the group match.

Haverhill II suffered a 73-run defeat against Brockley in Two Counties Division Three, with openers Sam Hartshorn and Tom Baker the only batsmen to reach double figures for the visitors.

There was also a six-wicket loss for Haverhill III at Exning II in Division

Nine West, despite good efforts from Arvid Gundersen (44) and Greg Street (46).

In CCA Senior League, Division One, Weston Colville suffered a seven-wicket defeat away to Fordham.

Having won their first three matches of the campaign following relegation from the Cambridgeshire & Huntingdonshire Premier League, Craig Williams' team have now succumbed to back-to-back losses.

They are fourth in the table going into Saturday's home match against Cambridge NCL.

Weston Colville batted first and were removed for just 89 in 35.2 overs.

Andy Brightmore top-scored with 25 at the top of the order, while Adam Taylor, who came in at No 3, added 20.

Fordham took 21.5 overs to reach 92 for 3 in reply as Mark Abbott (27 not out) led the way.

Sam Charlton, Jack Squire and Matt Daniels got one wicket each.

Carpenter shaves his handicap

HAVERHILL junior Jason Carpenter cut his handicap by one on the way to winning the Spring Cup.

Carpenter finished with a nett 65, closely followed by Fiona Stokes, nett 69, with Archie Chapman winning the stableford section on 29 points.

Jannifer Bradnam also picked up a first place medal for Haverhill Ladies at the Saturday Stableford with an impressive 39 points, cutting her handicap by two shots.

Pauline Calmet was next with 37 points, cutting her handicap by a shot, while Linda Alexander came third on 36 points.

The Ladies Captain's Summer Event attracted 84 women from 14 different clubs. Teams of four competed, Kate Samway, Anne Coventry, Sue Britten and Hillary Milton from Chelmsford winning with a score of 104 points. Marilyn Parentmore, Sue Snell, Linda Pestell and Wendy Hutton (Braintree) were second on 104.

In the Past Captains Trophy, 17 former captains and invited guests took part in the team event, with this year's winners being Dennis Harkness, Dean Cornelius, Kim Ward and James Martin on 121 points. Malcolm Klinge, Andy Fish, Laurie Hastie and David Pipe were second with 119 points while Gordon Price, Derek Thomas, Jason West and Dennis Crossley finished third with 112.

The Curry Cup team progressed through to the next round of the competition after overcoming Benton Hall and have been drawn against Three Rivers and Felixstowe.

Choat will lead us on to great success: Hardwick

HAVERHILL Borough chairman Dave Hardwick said he is confident new manager Anthony Choat will be a "great success" as he leads the club into the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division.

Choat, 29, replaces outgoing manager Anthony Westcott, who had to step down from the position because of work commitments.

Westcott secured the club's first piece of silverware in 2016, winning the Thurlow Nunn League, First Division Cup, before achieving promotion to the Premier Division at the end of last season.

Choat, who will become one of the youngest managers in the division, was Westcott's assistant for the majority of last season and, before that, enjoyed a successful player-manager role for Haverhill Borough reserves.

Cody Frazier, his assistant during that time, has been promoted to first-team head coach, underlining the club's commitment to promoting from within.

Hardwick also paid tribute to outgoing manager Westcott.

He said: "We are all extremely indebted to Martin for his hard work over the past two and a half years.

"He has worked extremely hard to ensure that the club survived some very tricky times and has now the opportunity to push on in the Thurlow Nunn, Premier Division.

"Anthony is Martin's obvious replacement. He is a natural manager, and as a club we have always believed that promotion from within is the way forward.

"He and Cody are both aware of the ethos and expectation of the club and we are sure they will be a great success."
